

Problems at Danescourt Primary school surfaced last October when four teachers were suspended with strike action taking place in December and February.

The suspended teachers returned to work in March and now headteacher, Ms Randall-Smith has been cleared of any wrongdoing, but unions representing the majority of staff at the troubled primary school rejected suggestions its absent head teacher is in a position to return.

Read the full story here <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-wales-south-east-wales-13705477> and here

<http://www.walesonline.co.uk/cardiffonline/cardiff-news/2011/06/09/unions-hit-back-at-claims-th-at-suspended-danescourt-head-is-set-to-return-91466-28846945>